

RECOGNIZING & AVOIDING SCAMS

IT'S A SCAM

Government agencies will not initiate contact with you and require you to provide personal information before you can receive pandemic relief funding. Be wary of callers who claim to be from the Social Security Administration, IRS, law enforcement, or businesses you know, like a utility or tech support company, and ask for your Social Security number or demand payment.

SCAMMERS SAY THERE'S A PROBLEM

Beware of unsolicited calls or texts claiming you'll be arrested, you owe money, or a relative has an emergency. Scammers often make calls related to computer viruses or account problems and ask victims to verify account information or send a payment. Do not click on unsolicited text messages or give information to callers.

SCAMMERS PRESSURE YOU TO ACT IMMEDIATELY

Don't allow yourself to be pressured into acting immediately. Stop and talk to someone you trust. Independently verify information. Before you do anything else, tell someone — a friend, a family member, or a neighbor. Talking about it could help you realize it's a scam.

SCAMMERS TELL YOU TO PAY IN A SPECIFIC WAY

Never pay someone who insists payments be made through money transfers or gift cards. Never deposit a check and send money back to someone. It's a scam.

TOP SCAMS AFFECTING SENIORS

Watch out for these top scams impacting Kentucky's seniors:

IDENTITY THEFT

Identity theft accounts for a significant number of scams reported to our office and is used by scammers to commit unemployment fraud, tax fraud, credit card fraud, and even romance scams. Scammers often steal identities by tricking victims into providing their personal information.

ROMANCE SCAMS

The highest dollar losses each year come from romance scams. Romance scammers set up fake profiles on social media and dating sites to befriend victims, often pretending to be in the military or located out of town. After building trust, they claim to have an emergency and ask their love interest to wire money or send gift cards to help.

COMPUTER TECH SUPPORT

Remote access scams involve computer pop-up messages alerting users to a hack, virus, or tech support needs. Scammers try to convince the user to grant them remote access to "fix" the problem. Once a scammer has access to the user's computer, they steal bank account and personal information.

LOTTERY & SWEEPSTAKES SCAMS

Lottery and Sweepstakes scammers call victims to announce lottery winnings or Publisher's Clearing House prizes and request payment for taxes and fees to obtain winnings.

GRANDPARENT SCAMS

In grandparent scams, scammers pose as a panicked grandchild, friend, or lawyer representing the grandchild. They urge you to send money immediately to help with an emergency, like paying a hospital bill or needing to leave a foreign country. The scammer often instructs the grandparent not to tell anyone. They pull at your heartstrings so they can trick you into sending money before you realize it's a scam.

FINANCIAL FRAUD AND SCAMS

Seniors lose more than $3 billion annually to financial scams. Phone calls and text messages are the top method scammers use to perpetrate fraud and scams. In 2020, reports of text message scams increased sharply, and many of these texts were directly related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

SURGE IN PANDEMIC SCAMS

During COVID-19, scams have surged, and Kentucky's seniors have suffered significant financial harm due to these schemes. Even before the pandemic, seniors were often the target of fraud attempts because of their "nest egg" savings. Unfortunately, extended periods of isolation and increased time online during this global health crisis have made older adults more vulnerable to fraud attempts.

- In 2020, fraud and scams resulted in $3 million in reported losses for Kentucky seniors, doubling the reported losses from the same period in 2019.
- Kentucky seniors experienced as much as an 8,000% monthly increase in financial losses to scammers during COVID-19.
- While Social Security and identity theft scams skyrocketed during the pandemic and were among the most prevalent scams harming Kentucky seniors, online romance scams led to the highest dollar losses, totaling more than $867,000.
